Broken Tooth Panic: How to safely manage teeth with fractures

The presence of fractures within teeth create a confusing array of signs and symptoms. Fractures in teeth affect all domains of the tooth including the dental pulp, hard dental tissues and marginal alveolar bone. The lecture will describe how to interpret the complex information to know when and how to manage teeth with fractures. Learn how to rapidly assess which teeth with fractures require monitoring, conservative intervention or extraction to obtain the best patient focused outcome. The lecture will also describe how to involve your patient in the decision making process.
